

Eric W. Robbins

Postgraduate Training

02/03/2025 -
PRESENT

Research Fellowship: Suffredini Lab

National Institutes of Health, Critical Care Medicine Department

- Under the mentorship of Drs. Anthony Suffredini and Julio Huapaya, served as a co-investigator on a prospective registry assessing proteomic profiling of myositis-associated interstitial lung disease.
- Acted as primary author and architect of the software, database, and first-pass statistical analyses for above registry. This work served as the basis for the lab's contribution to the ADAPTS grant (see Grants).
- Presented laboratory's findings at the NHLBI Intra-Mural Research Day 2026, as well as at a mini-symposium at the ATS International Meeting 2026.
- Enrolled in the NIH-Duke Master's Program in Clinical Research to gain a deeper understanding of statistical methods and clinical trial design.

07/01/2023 –
06/30/2026

Clinical Fellowship: Pulmonary & Critical Care Medicine

University of Maryland Medical Center

- Examined and treated patients with both acute and chronic pulmonary diseases in the inpatient and outpatient settings. Worked as a consultant on the General, Interventional, and Transplant Pulmonary services.
- Treated critically ill patients at the University of Maryland, including in the medical, neurologic, and trauma intensive care units. Performed all required procedures for patient care, including central line insertions, arterial line placements, chest tube placements, intubations, bronchoscopies, bedside ultrasonographies, and ventilatory adjustments, among others.
- Performed right heart catheterizations, read cardiopulmonary exercise tests and pulmonary function tests, and dedicated my senior longitudinal clinic sessions to the care of patients with pulmonary hypertension and interstitial lung disease.
- Grew adept at managing patients on VV-ECMO, receiving additional certification through Shock Trauma.
- Performed additional elective overnight shifts staffing the inpatient Bone Marrow Transplant Unit and Solid Tumor service.
- Worked with Drs. Katarina Zeder and Bradley Maron of the University of Maryland Institute of Health Computing on a research project to quantify the burden of pulmonary hypertension in Sub-Saharan Africa.
- Collaborated with Dr. Marcela Ferrada of the Division of Rheumatology as a co-PI on a prospective cohort study assessing the pulmonary manifestations of relapsing polychondritis and VEXAS syndrome.

06/15/2020 –
06/30/2023

Residency: Internal Medicine

Rhode Island Hospital / Brown University

- Received broad, rigorous training in all aspects of Internal Medicine, ranging from primary care clinic to the Cardiac and Medical Intensive Care Units.
- Served on the front lines of the Covid-19 pandemic, leading sensitive family meetings and goals of care discussions.
- Elected to provide care on the inpatient Hematology / Oncology service all three years of residency.
- Conducted research on pulmonary hypertension medication adherence in a large multi-center cohort registry, under the mentorship of Dr. Ventetuolo, publishing as first author in The Annals of the American Thoracic Society.

Education

8/2025 – PRESENT

Master of Health Sciences (MHSc) in Clinical Research

Duke University School of Medicine

8/2016 – 4/2020		Doctor of Medicine (MD) Tufts University School of Medicine
8/2006 – 5/2010		Bachelor of Arts (BA) Pomona College

Non-Clinical Work Experience

6/2017 – 9/2017		Medical Editor Journal of Medical Insight
9/2013 – 8/2016		Copyeditor Cell Press, RELX Group
6/2011 – 9/2013		Editorial Assistant Cell Press, RELX Group

Research

Grants

04/01/2026 – 04/01/2027		A Collaborative Framework for Harmonized Autoantibody and Proteomic Integration Across Systemic Autoimmune Rheumatic Diseases Using ADAPTS OADR-I-26-006 NIH, OADR-ORWH Award: $100,000 Role: Key personnel (PI: Suffredini)
